

Midwich Group plc.

Statement of compliance with the QCA Corporate Governance Code

Chairman's corporate governance statement

The Board's view continues to be that sound governance is an essential element of a well-run business. To that end, since our IPO in 2016, we have followed the code published by the Quoted Companies Alliance (QCA) as our benchmark for governance matters.

My role as Chairman of the Board remains separate to, and independent of, that of the Chief Executive (Group Managing Director) and we both have clearly defined responsibilities. Details of the responsibilities of all directors along with matters reserved for the Board and terms of reference for all the committees of the Board can be found on the Midwich Group plc website.

The Board is comprised of three independent non-executive directors (including the Chairman who was independent upon appointment) and two executive directors. The Board is satisfied that it has a suitable balance between independence and knowledge of the business to allow it to discharge its duties and responsibilities effectively.

The post of Company Secretary is presently held by an executive director. The Board considers that the size and nature of the Company means that the two roles can be carried out effectively by the Group Finance Director.

The Board maintains a regular dialogue with Investec, the Company's nominated advisor, and obtains other legal and financial advice as necessary to ensure compliance with the AIM Rules and other governance requirements.

We continue to review our approach to governance and how the views of stakeholders are represented in our oversight of the business. To that end, I continue to meet with shareholders as necessary. Feedback on both operational and governance matters from those meetings continues to form part of the Board's agenda.

There were a number of regulatory and government initiatives in recent years to which the Company has responded. These include implementation of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), Modern Slavery Act 2015, the Equality Act 2010 (Gender Pay Gap Information) Regulations 2017 and the 2016 Finance Act requirement to publish our tax strategy. Information on the policies and, where appropriate, the performance of the Group is available on the Company's website.

Andrew Herbert, Chairman

Adoption of the updated QCA Corporate Governance Code

The Board of Midwich Group plc (“Midwich” or the “Group” or the “Company”) has resolved to establish a strong governance culture using the Quoted Companies Alliance (QCA) code as the basis for its governance framework. The Board has reviewed this decision and continues to believe that the QCA code provides the most appropriate benchmark for its governance matters.

This report sets out an overview of how Midwich currently complies with each of the ten principles of the code. Midwich will continue to monitor and report on our compliance with the code annually.

Principle 1: Establish a strategy and business model which promote long term value for shareholders

Midwich has a clearly articulated strategy and business plan as a value-added distributor of Audio Visual and related products.

The business model is predicated on strong long-term relationships with high-end brand manufacturers, offering value-added service to trade-only customers. The Group’s growth strategy incorporates strong organic growth, including market share gains, along with expansion through acquisition in new geographies and in new market areas.

Full disclosure of our strategy and business model can be found in the Annual Report which is available on the Company’s website.

Principle 2: Seek to understand and meet shareholder needs and expectations

The Company engages with its shareholders through formal meetings, informal communications and through stock exchange announcements.

Management (typically the Group Managing Director and Group Finance Director) meet formally with institutional shareholders, usually after the interim and full year results announcements, presenting Company results, articulating strategy and updating shareholders on progress.

In addition, the Chairman meets separately with institutional shareholders to discuss matters pertaining to business performance and governance and receive shareholder feedback on any issues or concerns.

Trading and other statements are made via the stock exchange during the year and the Company holds its Annual General Meeting (AGM), at which, all shareholders can attend and speak with management.

Shareholders also communicate with the Company via email and by telephone and we respond to their specific questions and inputs as required. Company contact details are included in all announcements and are available on the Company website.

Principle 3: Take into account wider stakeholder and social responsibilities and their implications for long-term success

The Board considers relationships with, and the engagement of, our stakeholders to be a critical success factor for our business. As a specialist distributor, we add value by developing and maintaining in-depth understanding of our vendors’ and customers’ needs.

Vendor relationships are managed across all levels of the organisation with regular communication on both strategic matters and day-to-day engagement. Midwich prides itself on the longevity of many of these relationships and the key position it holds in the commercial operation of its vendors. The Board maintains an overview of vendor relationships through regular reporting and presentations from management.

Midwich operates a strictly business-to-business model so our customers are also a value-adding part of the supply chain. We have a dedicated sales and support organisation with responsibility for both day-to-day and more strategic communication. We receive regular feedback through these channels, together with the results of formal customer surveys, on customer needs, our performance, product performance and satisfaction of the ultimate end-user.

Customer feedback informs our decisions on the product portfolio and helps us to engage effectively with vendors; suggesting product enhancements and reporting on performance issues. Customer feedback also informs our decisions on support and how we organise resources to provide an effective and efficient service. Matters pertaining to customers and the internal support organisation are reported to the Board regularly. We have been recognised by both our vendors and reseller customers at the most prestigious award ceremonies within our industry.

Members of our Board are invited to attend our annual flagship event, Technology Exposed. The event allows them to view new products and technologies from our vendors and provides an opportunity to meet our customers. Technology Exposed also provides us with an opportunity for other stakeholders, including employees, investors, analysts and the media, to see AV technology in action and hear about Midwich from our vendors and customers.

Our employees are integral to the success of our value-add strategy. Knowledge, skills and experience are vital to ensure both vendor and customer satisfaction and, therefore, staff recruitment, retention and reward are critical. We have increased investment in training year on year including dedicated in-house training resources.

We hold regular open communication sessions with staff at all levels via management briefings and 'town hall' meetings in all locations. Staff surveys are conducted periodically, and staff members have individual annual appraisals. The Board receives regular reports on people matters, including the results and action plans from our staff surveys.

Midwich is a significant employer in Diss, UK and has operations in a range of other locations and countries. We are committed to supporting and sponsoring events in the local community and contributing to charitable and other good causes.

We are conscious of our broader environmental responsibilities and maintain a range of initiatives including but not limited to:

- Reducing waste and recycling
- Use of low emission fleet and hire cars
- Switching to low energy heating and lighting solutions
- Using technology to reduce travel and emissions
- Ensuring our new facilities exceed the latest environmental standards

Principle 4: Embed effective risk management, considering both opportunities and threats, throughout the organisation

The Board has ultimate responsibility for the Group's system of internal controls and for reviewing its effectiveness. However, any such system of internal control can only provide reasonable, but not absolute, assurance against material misstatement or loss. The Board considers that the internal controls in place are appropriate for the size, complexity and risk profile of the Group.

The Group operates a risk assessment and monitoring process with regular updates provided to the Board and the Audit Committee.

Accounting and financial control risk

The Group operates consistent accounting policies and control procedures across its subsidiary operations, including newly acquired entities, and relies upon local management to ensure those policies and procedures are followed. This is managed and reviewed by the central finance team.

In the last two years, we have added additional resources to both in-country and central finance teams to strengthen our integration capabilities and add specialist knowledge in areas such as taxation. The Group also relies on third party reviews and audits to ensure compliance with local financial regulations.

The Group uses a structured performance management process, which includes strategic planning, annual budgets, monthly performance reviews, daily KPI reporting and regular forecast updates. Areas covered by this process include revenue, profit, working capital, cash flow and capital investment. The Board approves the strategy and the budget on an annual basis and receives regular performance updates throughout the year.

The Group also has opportunities to grow through adopting new brands or products or through acquisition. The Board maintains an overview of opportunities identified and management provides regular updates monitoring progress in their delivery. We have built, and continue to develop, a number of processes to assess and integrate acquisitions. These processes range from standard legal and due diligence templates to structured on-boarding and integration post acquisition. All acquisitions are approved by the Board.

Operational controls

The principal elements of the Group's internal controls include:

- Management structure
- Financial monitoring
- Risk registers
- Approval limits
- Internal policies, codes of conduct and training
- Health and safety
- IT controls

The Audit Committee receives feedback on the effectiveness of internal controls from executive management and correlates that with separate reports from the external audit process.

Principle 5: Maintain the board as a well-functioning, balanced team led by the Chair

The Board is comprised of three independent non-executive directors (including the Chairman who was independent upon appointment) and two executive directors. The non-executive directors have service agreements with three months' notice either side and are required to be available to attend board meetings and to deal with both regular and ad hoc matters. An indicative time commitment is twenty days per annum, but letters of appointment indicate that this is an estimate and that directors are expected to commit sufficient time to fully discharge their responsibilities. All non-executive directors have confirmed and demonstrated that they have adequate time available to meet the requirements of the role and they have no conflicts.

Executive directors work full time in the business and have no other significant outside business commitments. Executive directors hold service contracts with a nine-month notice period. All directors retire and submit themselves for re-election each year at the Company's Annual General Meeting.

The Board is satisfied that it has a suitable balance between independence and knowledge of the business to allow it to discharge its duties and responsibilities effectively.

Principle 6: Ensure that between them the directors have necessary up-to-date experience, skills and capabilities.

The Board is satisfied that, between the directors, it has an effective balance of skills and experience. For example, specialist AV industry knowledge and broad experience in sales, operations, international expansion, finance, human resources, information technology and capital markets.

Each Board member brings a different mix of knowledge and experience, which blend well into a successful and effective team. Board composition is kept under review and the Board is committed to ensuring diversity of skill, experience and gender balance.

Biographies for each Board member are published both on the Company's website and in the Annual Report. Board members maintain their skillsets through practice in day-to-day roles, enhanced with attending specific training where required. This is a combination of in-house and external briefings and courses.

The Board uses external advisors where necessary to enhance knowledge or to gain access to particular skills or capabilities. Accountants and lawyers are used for diligence work on certain acquisitions; both nomination and remuneration committees use recruitment and employment consultants, and specialist advisors have been used by the Board to ensure compliance in specific areas.

Principle 7: Evaluate Board performance based on clear and relevant objectives, seeking continuous improvement

The Board conducts a formal evaluation and appraisal process annually. A survey has been developed in-house and completed annually by directors. It seeks their individual views on Board composition and effectiveness, business leadership, QCA code compliance and other matters. A senior independent member of staff compiles the results ahead of a Board discussion during which matters arising are reviewed and actions agreed.

In the 2020 survey there were no major issues or concerns raised about the effectiveness of the Board or its individual members. The Board will continue to monitor its approach to the evaluation of effectiveness including the use from time to time of external facilitation.

Principle 8: Promote a corporate culture that is based on ethical values and behaviours

The Board is committed to promoting a strong ethical and values driven culture throughout the organisation. We believe this to be an essential element of a well-run business and summarise our values as follows:

- Giving our best
- Empathy and respect
- Cooperation and engagement
- Continuous improvement
- Trustworthiness
- Open communication
- Fairness

The nature of our business, as a value-adding distributor, means expertise and people skills are at the core of what we do and how we maintain competitive advantage. Having a people-oriented ethos, where teamwork and commitment are recognised, is central to the success of our strategy. We pride ourselves on our home-grown talent, with a significant number of our senior managers having built their careers within the Group.

We understand that people need to enjoy what they do, we recognise those who demonstrate our values both informally and through recognition schemes.

Where concerns are identified, we have formal processes in place to investigate and address any areas where we consider individuals have not acted in accordance with our values.

To promote our ethical values, we actively encourage and support community involvement across the Group through our “Midwich loves.... giving back” programme. This is based on four pillars: The Community, The Environment, Charity Support and Our People. Each pillar has a clearly defined goal and is backed by a pledge for the year ahead. Further details can be found in the corporate social responsibility and sustainability section of the Annual Report.

Principle 9: Maintain governance structures and processes that are fit for purpose and support good decision making by the Board

The Board typically meets eight times per annum. There were eight scheduled meetings in 2019, each one attended by all Board directors. Further ad hoc meetings are held as necessary.

A formal Board programme is agreed before the start of each financial year. This is structured, as far as possible, to align with the Group’s annual financial programme.

A full pack of papers is made available to all Board members in advance of scheduled meetings, covering both operational and strategic matters. In addition, the Board receives presentations from operational management.

During the year, the Chairman also arranges calls and face to face meetings of the non-executive directors. These provide an informal opportunity to align views and determine areas of focus at future Board meetings

The Board is responsible for the long-term performance of the Group. Specific matters are reserved for the Board. These are set out on the Company’s website and include: Group strategy, corporate and capital structures, approval of key financial matters (annual and interim results, budgets, dividend policy), material contracts and Board membership and remuneration.

The Board is supported by the Audit, Nomination and Remuneration committees. The membership and main roles of each committee are included in the Annual Report and the Company’s website. Each committee has access to the resources, information and advice that it deems necessary, at the cost of the Group, to enable the committee to discharge its duties.

The Board is committed to a process of continuous improvement in its governance approach and aims to enhance and develop compliance with best practice. A recent example of this was the decision to enhance the strategic report within the 2019 Annual Report.

An executive director undertakes the role of Company Secretary. The Board believes that, at this present time, the two roles can be combined effectively.

Principle 10: Communicate how the Company is governed and is performing by maintaining a dialogue with shareholders and other relevant stakeholders.

The Group communicates with shareholders through the Annual Report and Accounts, half yearly trading updates, the AGM, capital markets days and one-to-one meetings with certain existing or potential new shareholders.

Reports from the Audit, Nomination and Remuneration Committees are set out within the Annual Report.

The Company's website includes the outcomes of shareholder votes cast at the AGM and historic annual accounts and AGM notices (since the Group's admission to AIM).

In formally adopting the QCA code (as revised April 2018) as its governance framework, the Board is committed to monitoring all aspects of compliance and ensuring appropriate disclosures on its website.

As a result of reviewing the disclosure requirements of AR 26 (as revised), the Board has confirmed that it continues to meet and comply with all the requirements of the QCA code as disclosed herein.
